These girls will compete in the final contest that is to be held April 10, at 7:30 p. m. in the Charles Johnson Theater. The four areas of competition will be swimsuit, talent, evening gown, and the five top candidates will answer questions.

The girl chosen as Miss Maryville will win a $220 scholarship, a trophy, and numerous other prizes from Maryville merchants.

The final contest will be open to the public.

Senate Revises Laws, Student Officer Limits

Candidates will no longer be required to have previous Senate experience to run for student body president and vice president.

In a second revision of Senate by-laws, the new Senate, to be elected April 17, will not take office until the first meeting of the coming fall semester.

Senator Pete Richardson pointed out to the Senate that the former amendment, introduced by Senator Richard Dean, is to limit the importance of Greek-independent factions. The amendment disregards the Greek coalition in opening candidacy opportunity.

Senators voted in agreement with Senator Angel Melendez's comment: "Whenever limitations are placed on something, some of the motivation behind it is killed."

Senator Richardson presented the proposal concerning the beginning of the Senate term. In this way: new Senators would have ample opportunity to observe Senate procedure without using those weeks of the spring semester following elections as an orientation period. Richardson believes that the outgoing Senate could operate more effectively during this period.

A further amendment lowering to 40 the 45 academic hour requirement placed on candidates for Senate president and vice president was introduced by Senator Larry Woody. This proposal was tabled by a narrow margin, eliminating it from consideration in this year's elections.

Senator Alan Wagner announced that nomination conventions within classes are to be held for Senate elections on Apr. 8. He also made recommendations for election policies.

Indoor signs are to be approved by the Senate for campaigning, and aspirants for office will be allowed to make speeches concerning their platforms on a date to be set during election week in the Horace Mann Auditorium.

A new Senator, George Hammer, was sworn in to replace John Thompson, who is now student teaching.

In other Senate business, a constitution was submitted by Senator Dean for Associated Men Students, an organization for men that he described as being set up on much the same principle as AWS.

ELECTION DATA

At 4 p. m., April 8, in Colden Hall, nomination caucuses for all student body and class officers for 1969-70 will be held.

The open caucus for student body officers will be held in Room 314 with Mike Wilson presiding. Angel Melendez will preside at the junior nominations in Room 317. The sophomore class caucus, with Alan Wagner presiding, will be in Room 316. Bruce Stadlman will direct the freshman class meeting in Room 312.

Students need not have previous senate experience to run for any student body office. They must, however, maintain a 2.00 GPA, have accumulated 45 college hours and be on no college probation.

Students can also be nominated by filing a petition with the signatures of 50 association members in the office of the Dean of Students. The deadline for such nominations is 4:30 p. m., April 9.

All campaign managers and/or candidates will meet April 9 in the Hawthorne Room of the Union at which time rules will be distributed and explained.

Students may meet with and discuss each candidate's platform on Monday, April 14, in the Horace Mann auditorium.

Dr. Hale Evaluates Student Teaching

A refresher course in grammar is needed by the new teacher before he steps into his first classroom.

This assertion was made by Dr. Robert E. Hale, assistant professor of education, after he conducted an evaluation seminar March 24 for 32 seniors who last week completed eight weeks of student teaching in the St. Joseph school system. Dr. Hale served as their college coordinator.

"Many students receive no instruction in grammar after their sophomore year," he explained, "and there is evidence of a tendency to slip a bit in correct language usage."

Also revealed at the seminar was a need for more orientation of student teachers by the cooperating schools before student teaching begins.

"The edge should be taken off of the strangeness of the new school situation," Dr. Hale explained. "It is advisable that the student teacher know more

Self-Discipline

Inter-Fraternity Council Acts

Wonders never cease to amaze me! The Inter-Fraternity Council has got some guts and can wield some power when it has to.

A couple of weeks ago a little skirmish took place. Members of Fraternity A and Fraternity B were enjoying an evening of camaraderie at a local pub when an exchange of derogatory remarks triggered a display of fisticuffs.

After being expelled from the establishment, the skirmish, which had by now enlarged in proportions, moved to a new battleground in front of Fraternity B's house. Reinforcements were called in, and the battle started anew.

While some members of Fraternity A and Fraternity B were fighting, others were trying to quell the disturbance. Their worthwhile attempts at peace apparently went unheeded as Fraternity B's front door was broken down, trophies were destroyed, and a window was smashed.

Not until two members of the administration arrived, was any semblance of order attained. However, while the two groups were being calmed, the inevitable happened. An overzealous member of Fraternity A arrived on the scene and took it upon himself to decapitate a member of Fraternity B as a flourishing finale to the evening's diversion.

The situation was brought before the IFC in the form of a complaint by Fraternity B. The decision of reprimanding Fraternity A or overlooking the entire incident was left up to the IFC.

Fraternity A has been denied any formal rush next fall—in my opinion, a just, if not lenient reprisal.

Congratulations to the IFC for taking the responsibility of disciplining its members and setting a precedent in the hopes of preventing any further incidents of this type.

Open Air Art Fair
Planned for May 3

Students and faculty are invited to enter their creative work in an encore performance of last year's "Alley Art," which will be held May 3 in Stephenson's east-west alley.

For the open-air fair, the sponsoring Nodaway Arts Council will provide a chicken wire hanging surface, but each artist is responsible for his own work and selling procedure.

Those interested should contact Mr. James Broderick, MSC art instructor, or Mrs. Dick Thomson, 926 N. Main, Maryville, 582-3361. The deadline for entries is April 18.

We Pause in Tribute

Once more our nation has paused to pay tribute to a great man, has joined his family in mourning, has found much in his life to inspire them and much to emulate.

These mourning days have come often in recent years. For many of us the passing of the late President John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King, Robert Kennedy, and now former President Dwight D. Eisenhower have been made unforgettable through our attendance at their rites via television. We emerge from these days of sadness, as we do after witnessing a moving tragedy on the stage, with a feeling of catharsis, but with the added resolution to follow the example of these great men we have known and respected and try to do our part to help bring peace to the world. We resolve to search for ways to communicate with people whose ideas differ from ours.

Northwest Missouri State College joined other groups throughout the nation Monday afternoon and paused at 2 o'clock to pay respect to Mr. Eisenhower, a truly great, yet simple man, one who represents, as President Richard Nixon said in his eulogy, physically and spiritually "the very heart of the United States."

Letter to Editor

Dear Editor,

Congratulations Northwest Missourian on the fine job you did on reporting to the students of this campus of the near riot which occurred on the evening of March 17, 1969, which involved members of two of our so-called outstanding fraternities.

Surely, at least one of your staff members must have heard of the incident because at least one of your staff belongs to one of the fraternities involved. Is it not the primary purpose of the newspaper to bring news to people? Isn't this college, N. W. M. S. C., and the newspaper, the Northwest Missourian, located in Missouri and not in Russia? Why then was this news edited and never put into print? Whether news is bad or good, it's news.

Is this a college for "war lords" or a college of higher education? Was this news not printed because it would be detrimental to the system, would ruin the chances of large pledgeships, wouldn't look good, would be painful to the ears of some people, or would ruin the Greek image?

Granted, an organization should not be criticized for what some of its members do, but when most of its members

Mr. Walter R. Cummings, author of the following letter, was graduated from MSC in 1942 with a BS degree in music and commerce. He is now postmaster at Grant City.

Dear Dr. Foster:

I had the unusual opportunity on Wednesday, March 19, 1969, to visit the campus and attend four classes at Northwest Missouri State College. I have had through the years a deep interest as alumnus in the physical growth of the many facilities added for educational use. There have been many additions to facilities and equipment to improve the quality of instruction since you and I started as green freshmen in 1935.

I did not have the opportunity to visit classes and observe the true educational process in action until Wednesday. My observations during this brief visit were many, but in general summation the most noticeable impression was the appearance and conduct of the students with whom I came in contact. Their appearance was neat, clean, and respectful. Their attitudes were positive.

Their behavior in the classroom and respect for their instructors were noticeably good. They were attentive to instruction and responded well to questions by the instructor.

They spoke to me in the halls or wherever I met them. I never felt at any time that I was not welcome. No feeling of resentment, belligerence, or forceful adherence was ever present.

Please accept my compliments on an excellent student body as they are a fine, clean-cut group of young people with a desire to learn and a good atmosphere to learn in. The credit, in part, must go to the excellent administration and cooperation between administration, instructors, and students.

The news media of today headline disturbances in the colleges across the United States, which, in my opinion, are operated by less than 1 per cent of the students. Why can't we give headlines to the other 99 per cent who are interested are involved, I think a majority of the blame should rest squarely on the shoulders of the organization. The Greeks are always praised on this campus for being do-gooders; for having a far greater majority than the independents belonging to the Student Senate; and-or for accomplishing charitable deeds. But, when the Greeks do nasty things, these accomplishments are hushed up. Why?

This is the second incident of this type that I have become aware of. Being a relatively new member of this campus when the first incident occurred, and not wanting to cause hard feelings, I said nothing. But, this is the second time in less than a year. Are not the members of these fraternities supposed to be the so-called gentlemen of the campus? Doesn't each fraternity designate one day a week for their brothers to dress up in order to show their eliteness? Doesn't the word fraternity pertain to brotherhood? Well, the answer to the three questions proposed is the same, yes. So, come on men, in an education and pursue that objective without dedication?

This is why the excellent environment and attitudes that are noticeable on the campus of Northwest Missouri State College are so important to students selecting their college to attend.

Sincerely yours,
Walter R. Cummings

Dear Editor:

I would like to comment on the Editorial in the March 18 issue of the Missourian concerning the Greek system and the Student Senate.

Contrary to what the writer would have us to believe, the independents on the Student Senate are not the speechless pawns of the Greeks. The success of this year's Senate has been due largely to the initiation of timely legislation by the concerned independent senators who maintained their interest throughout the entire year.

Open housing, the abolishment of negative credit, revision of men's dress regulations, and the hoped-for establishment of a limited pass-fail system have all been initiated by independent student senators.

Granted, the independents have not done this alone. The Senate of this year has brought itself above archaic factionalism and has obtained some degree of objective unity. Although there still exists some basic ideological differences, this Senate in general has unified enough to make the interests of the entire student body, and not only a particular interest group, paramount in their minds.

Therefore, lest we forget . . . the Greeks certainly are not "running" the Student Senate, but this is not the issue. Remember, we have risen above factionalism. Success has come from the spirit of unity and coherence cultivated this year. Let's not completely destroy a year's labor with one poison pen.

and get with the program. Start practicing what you preach.

Members of these fraternities along with other individuals are probably asking themselves, what is wrong with this guy? Why did he write this letter? Why stir up bad experiences? Why bring back bad memories? What is this letter going to accomplish? Well, I'll tell you one thing that this letter is not going to accomplish and that is to bring back the hours of sleep lost by the poor, unfortunate citizens who happen to live in the vicinity of the fracas. This letter is not going to bring back the broken trophies or the kicked-in door—they might have already been paid for. But, what this letter is trying to do is to find out (1) why mention was never made of this incident, (2) what is being done in order to alleviate the problem, and (3) that no one or no organization is infallible. The Greeks are not gods. Let's not treat them like they are, and let's have equal representation.

Independently yours,
Charles A. Flanagan Jr.

REW Speakers Consider 'Conscience of Times'

New concepts in religion were sparked last week by four "go-generation" theologians.

The event was Religious Emphasis Week; the theme, "Conscience of Our Times." Guest lecturers included the Rev. Lawrence W. Bash, Mr. Cecil R. Ettinger, Rabbi John Rosenblatt, and Sister Anne White.

Launching the lecture series, which commanded on the average 30 students in attendance, was the Reverend Bash, minister of the Country Club Christian Church in Kansas City. Reviewing Dr. Joseph Fletcher's book entitled "Situation Ethics," the speaker discussed the new morality and the conflict of forces in society as opposed to personal responsibility.

"The question is not whether things will change or not — I think they will change in spite of us," Sister Anne White told students in her lecture Tuesday afternoon. Sister Anne, who is chairman of the department of theology at Webster College, St. Louis, questioned the churches' role on the modern day campus by pointing out that the church definitely cannot be imposed on the student.

Rabbi John Rosenblatt, guest speaker from Temple Adath in St. Joseph, related in his lecture the history and development of Judaism. Describing himself as a liberal, Rabbi Rosenblatt revealed his concern for the Viet Nam War: "I can't understand why the U. S. does not declare war in Viet Nam. As long as lives are taken, we are involved in war."

"Too many adults are satisfied with life as it is in the world today — young people won't be satisfied with that," Mr. Cecil Ettinger stated Thursday. Ettinger is from the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints in Independence, Mo. In his lecture he related the roles of the church and higher education in which both are establishments having the same problems, which they could solve together.

Throughout the week, the speakers also visited classrooms and various organizational meetings. Emphasis was placed on the religious ideal and not on any one particular religion. No invocations, benedictions, or hymns were included in the programs as has been customary in the past.

The event that merited the highest attendance was the program given by the Confronters, a musical group from William Jewell College. The 20 member group sang pop songs explaining that they were searching for some answers and looking for them in the songs they sang.

Added attractions during the week included a trans-lite display from the New York World's Fair, and a film entitled "Man's Search for Happiness."

An interview with Dr. Kenneth Minter, chairman of REW, revealed that the whole REW program is being re-evaluated for next year's activities. He commented that he is open to all suggestions as to how the program could be improved.

Union Reopens Noon Forums To Promote Election Dialogue

The Open Forum, a scheduled time each week when a microphone is set up in the Union Den for the airing of MSC students' ideas and grievances, was reinstituted March 26 after a six-month absence.

Sponsored by the Union Board, the Open Forum will be held every Wednesday from 12 noon to 1 p. m. The upcoming student government elections prompted the Board to reopen the program in the hope of promoting student interest and involvement.

David Hockensmith, a junior from Maryville, was the only student to take advantage of the microphone Wednesday.

He asked students to consider the upcoming Senate elections and the fact that there is not a democratic representation in that body. Quoting from an article by Bill Musgrave in a past edition of the Northwest Missourian, Hockensmith stated that there is one representative in the Senate for every 100 Greeks but that the Independents' representation ratio is one to 600.

Hockensmith closed by urging the students to vote for an Independent for every office in which one is running and invited the listeners to discuss the future of the Independents with him.

Ian Thompson Stars... Night Out With Othello

By Walt Yadusky

"You would do well to watch her, Moor: She has deceived her father and may thee." With this line setting an aura of dark suspicion, "Othello," in all of its intrigue and biting hatred, moved once more across another stage.

Iago, the master villain of all time, as portrayed by Ian Thompson, was free once more to work his wiles upon Rodrigo, his pawn, in a vicious game of revenge against a man whose feats of courage he could not duplicate but only cunningly undermine.

Although many in the audience, including this columnist, were not prepared to stay for such a long performance, having had little experience with Shakespeare productions, the general consensus was one of pleasure and appreciation. The lighting was superbly effective in creating rapport between Iago and his audience, and it was his entirely. The sparkling blue spots added the touch of mystery and a taste of participation in Iago's sly asides and soliloquies in which he admitted his true nature and his evil intent.

The rest of the acting was good with one exception, the portrayal of Emilia. The purpose of this character is to give the audience a means to vent its hatred and anguish upon Iago and Othello. Naomi Riseman in her interpretation was decidedly lacking. She did not lash out at the stupid, hasty action on the part of Othello in taking the life of her innocent and obedient mistress, whose love for her husband was so apparent that he, even in his blind rage, should have recognized it.

The play, although an acceptable performance, lacked a certain vitality. The spirit of close communication between cast and audience was often separated by scenes in which there was little action.

The temperature in the auditorium itself was warm, quite conducive to dozing and seemed to cruelly drain interest from a fine play.

Well-deserved thanks and a silent standing ovation should be extended to Dr. Robert Govier and the Performing Arts Committee for an outstanding job of bringing quality entertainment to this campus.

Oriental Coed Turns Paper to Art

Japanese are known for their appreciation of art and beauty, and Miss Haruyo Sadaie proves this with her skill in origami or paper folding.

The process, as Miss Sadaie explains, is simple: "You must have a square piece of paper that is decorative, lightweight, and easy to handle. The size of the paper does not matter, but it must be square."

After folding in the correct ways, Miss Sadaie can make boats which sail, baskets that open, balls that can be blown up, hats, and birds with movable wings. Each paper bird symbolizes peace and "can be sent to war victims or anyone in time of intense anxiety as a sign of peace and will to overcome," Miss Sadaie said. This art, among many others, is taught in kindergarten as part of every Japanese child's training.

Miss Sadaie, a freshman, came to America from Okayama City, Japan, to enter college for the first time Sept. 3, 1968. She confessed she had a little bit of difficulty getting here.

The Oriental coed took a train from Okayama City to Tokyo, then flew to Hawaii. She overslept and missed her plane to San Francisco, but was able to catch the next one. When she arrived in Denver, she found she had missed her plane to Omaha because of the time change and missing the other plane. Finally, after arriving in Omaha, she finished the trip to Maryville by bus.

Miss Sadaie is studying English and American literature and plans to remain here for only one year although she says, "I want to stay more and more."

Miss Sadaie's father is a construction foreman and her mother, "a very good housewife," she said.

In telling of her paper creation, the international student stated that the Japanese teach many crafts to their children while they are young. Clubs are formed as extracurricular school activities in such artistic fields as flower arranging, painting, dancing and Kendo, which is a type of fencing for boys only. Other sports are popular with students, too. Baseball is the national sport in Japan. It is closely followed by soccer, Sumoo (wrestling), and boxing.

Miss Sadaie has spent her vacations and some weekends in the homes of several of her new American friends. When she returns to Japan, she plans to go to school, but also, would like to visit a friend in Indonesia.

About America and MSC she commented, "I like school because the teachers are friendly and help me. Visiting here has been a very pleasant and joyous experience."

Enrollment Is Held For Pre-Schoolers

Pre - registration is being held for enrollment of preschool children in the Child Development Laboratory, a program of the MSC home economics department.

The term will begin in September with sessions to be held five days a week. A maximum of 15 children will be accepted for the school. Three year olds will attend in the mornings and four year olds, in the afternoons.

The laboratory is located near the college on West Ninth Street. Extensive remodeling of the building was completed before its opening last October. It now provides a complete nursery school. Equipped with one-way interior windows and observation posts, the center gives home economics students studying child development an opportunity to observe physical and mental growth of the preschoolers.

Parents wishing to enroll their children may call Mrs. Virginia Bouska, home economics department, 582-3311.

AAUW Schedules Award Interviews

The Maryville Branch of AAUW grants and scholarships committee has scheduled sessions for interviewing scholarship applicants, beginning at 7 p. m. April 11 in Room 102, Colden Hall.

Soroptimists Honor MSC Alumnae

By Barbara Dyke

The lives of two MSC graduates honored at the Maryville Soroptimist Club's second annual Honors dinner Friday night have been closely paralleled in the past.

Mrs. Harold D. Fields was honored for distinguished community service. Mrs. Thomas H. Eckert was cited for distinguished professional service.

Besides being graduates of MSC, both have taught in the Maryville public schools, belong to the American Association of University Women, are members of the St. Francis Hospital Guild, the Nodaway Arts Council, and the Experiment in International Living program and have served on many committees together.

Mrs. Eckert, supervisor of the English-journalism majors at MSC and director of the Missouriian, has done graduate work at the University of Missouri, the University of Minnesota, and Kansas State University.

Among Mrs. Eckert's achievement was being named in 1963 as U. S. Journalism Teacher of the Year by the Wall Street Journal. She also has been the Business and Professional Women's club woman of the year and has received citations for service to many local, state, and national organizations.

Mrs. Eckert is currently serving as state liaison for the National Council of English Board for the Missouri Association of Teachers of English and is publicity chairman for the Nodaway Arts Council and the St. Francis Hospital Guild. She is affiliated with Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary education fraternity, which she has served as state editor. She heads the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas Service, Youth Citizenship, and Fellowship committees.

Mrs. Fields has done graduate work at the University of Colorado. She was a teacher of languages in the Maryville High School, participated in the reorganization of the schools, and is presently working as chairman of the teacher's committee on the program of study of the Maryville public school system.

Mrs. Gary McMahon, alumnae president, presented gifts to new initiates and pledges of the collegiate chapter.

Dr. Margaret Fagin, center, paid tribute to two MSC graduates, Mrs. T. H. Eckert and Mrs. Harold Fields, St. Louis, at the Maryville Soroptimist Club's second annual Honors dinner held Friday night in the Union Ballroom.

A member of the general committee for the Experiment in International Living, she has served as chairman of the selection committee of the Outbound Ambassador program, a member of the committee on fund raising projects, and her family has been a host family for visiting ambassadors.

Mrs. Fields has been chairman of the membership committee of the Nodaway Arts Council. She is a member of the Friends of the Library and was active in the reorganization and move to the new location of the Maryville Public Library. She also has been active in work with the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts.

Among other organizations with which she is affiliated are Chapter L, PEO and Delta Zeta sorority.

The dinner which was preceded by a reception, was held in the Union ballroom. Mrs. John Schrier, MSC instructor, presiding over the program which followed, introduced the families of the honored guests, guests at the speaker's table, husbands of the Soroptimists, representatives of local clubs and organizations, and commended Miss Mabel Cook for her work as chairman of the community.

Mrs. Charles R. Bell, in tribute to Mrs. Eckert, used an excerpt from Kahlil Gibran's book The Prophet, "If the teacher is indeed wise, he does not bid you to the house of his wisdom, but rather to the threshold of your own mind."

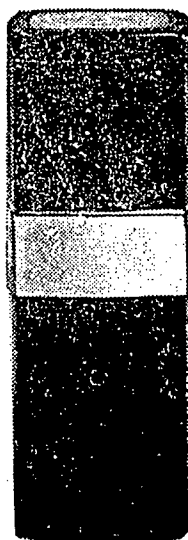

The guest speaker was Dr. Margaret Fagin, director of continuing education for women of the University of Missouri at St. Louis.

Dr. Fagin stated the public has been brainwashed into thinking women are not as bright or as capable as men. She challenged women to become enthusiastic models and good advertisements in pointing young girls toward the professional areas. She also cautioned against complaining, rushing, and showing tension or weariness, because "you never know when you are teaching."

Dr. Fagin pointed out that surveys show the number and status of professional women of today is declining. As an example one survey showed that of 2,000,000 women in professional, technical, and kindred work, 80 per cent are engaged in just a few professions, including teaching, nursing, accounting, music, library work, and office work.

Horace Mann Pupils Present African Festival

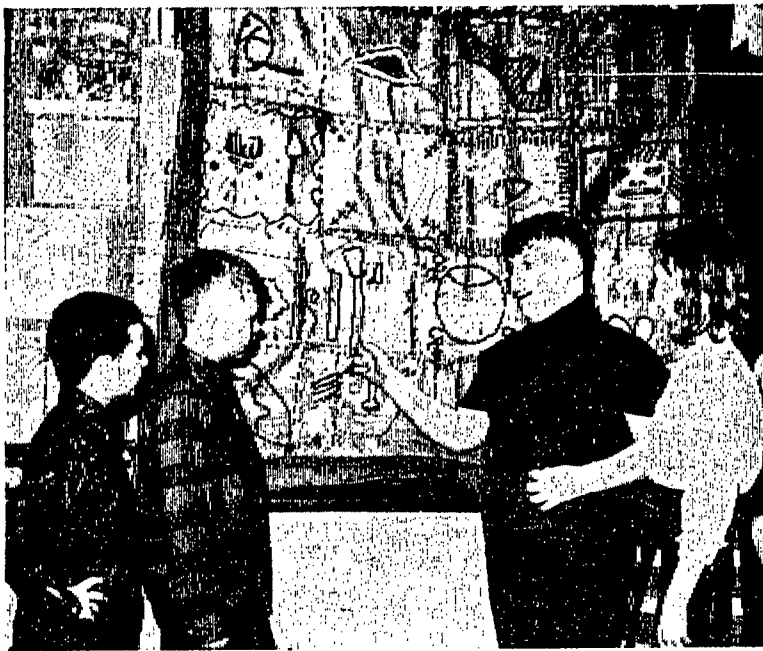

An African Festival was presented Monday evening by fifth and sixth grade social studies students in the Horace Mann Gymnasium.

The festival was the end of an eight-week unit on Africa presented by student teachers Mr. Larry Johnson, Carvon, Iowa; Mrs. Charlotte Whittmeyer, Bedford, and Mrs. Dee Goetch, Maryville, under the direction of Mrs. Betty Wood, fifth grade instructor at Horace Mann School.

The festival was centered around Jomo Kenyatta's theme "Harambee," meaning: "Let us pull together." Each student set up a booth representing an African country of his choice. Murals, flags, genuine artifacts, student-made pottery, and masks constituted a part of the exhibits.

Student chairmen of the event were Rick Gutzmer, sixth grade, and Mark Masters, fifth grade. Committees were formed by students to organize and set up the project.

Speakers who presented talks concerning Africa during the unit were Miss Eunice Kangethe and Paul Kangethe, students from Africa; the Rev. Mike Bourne, Maryville pastor of the Church of Christ, and Father Matthew Costello, Conception Abbey.

Observing their burlap tapestry based on aspects of African art are Steve Gard, George Atchison, Tony Schmidt, and Cindy Smail.

ments, Dr. Hale states that three questions are involved each time such a decision is made: Is it sound for the youth of the district? Is it financially sound? Is it administratively sound? All three must be answered, he declared, before a valid solution can be found.

Dr. Hale commented on the changing role of the teacher. Today's teachers are more qualified and more specialized, he asserted.

"The teacher's role in determining the educational program is being expanded each year. He has a more important and creative role in that he is involved in the planning as well as the execution of ideas. I think the future portends even more specialization for teachers and more movement toward diversification in curriculum. Students will have more electives so that they may be met at their own level of interest and ability."

Dr. Hale is a native of Eagleville, Mo. He completed undergraduate work and earned a Master's degree and the doctor of education degree at the University of Kansas in Lawrence.

Stadlman also announced that KDLX has filed application with the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to broadcast educational material on FM frequencies as well as AM. Faculty Talents Bring New Life To 'Spoon River'

The Missourian takes this opportunity to offer a tribute to instructors who recently proved themselves capable of taking on the assignments they expect of their own students.

Members of the speech and drama department, under the direction of Mr. Richard A. Weaver, brought Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology" to life Wednesday night as they re-enacted the varied roles of the small town residents looking back on their lives of mid-western monotony.

Each of these faculty members exhibited versatility in portraying a variety of characters. Simple, yet beautifully done staging and realistic costuming added much to the presentation. Creativity, above all, was the spark that made the characterizations so delightful.

Mr. Charles O'Dell, English department, and Dr. Robert Govier, language department, along with Mrs. Dennis Nicks of the sponsoring group, deserve much commendation for the professionally done musical numbers which kept the program lively throughout.

College Completes Plans for Study, Tour in England

Although 50 people, the number needed to obtain group rates, have registered for the Alumni Tour to England this summer, Mr. Bob Cotter, director of alumni relations, reports that reservations are still available and will be welcomed.

The excursion will begin Aug. 8 from Kansas City Municipal Airport where the participants will board a jet airliner for New York. In New York the tour members will be able to go sightseeing during a layover.

From New York the tourists will fly directly to London, the city which will provide an informal base of distribution for the MSC group. Although many activities have been preplanned, a good deal of the time will be free, allowing for trips to the English countryside, excursions across the English Channel to the European mainland, tours of English cathedrals and castles, etc. The group will return to the United States on Aug. 21.

The January edition of the NWMSC Alumni News has a complete description of the tour, which offers a two-hour undergraduate art course as part of the package. Any MSC students or faculty members who are interested should contact Mr. Cotter in the Field Services Office immediately.

Top Area Prospect Signs Pigskin Intent

Head Bearcat football coach Ivan Schottel and his assistant, Jim Redd, beamed happily last weekend when one of the area's top prospective line-men signed a football grant-in-aid.

Dan Newton, a 6-foot-5, 260-pound, Savannah High School standout will defend the Bearcat green and white next fall.

Newton possesses speed and size which are all important in modern collegiate football. In 1967 and 1968 he was named as tackle to the Midland Empire All-Conference team. Also, in '68 Newton was chosen for the All-District squad, and received honorable mention in the '68 All-State selections.

The Savannah star threw the discus in field events and compiled a 20-1 record in wrestling for the Savages in addition to his grid-iron activities.

MSC Physical Education Majors Offer Service
